SIR HERBERT AMES

More and more widespread is becoming the interest in international leiations, among townspeople as well as the students. For months university students have been studying it in their classes and discussing it in their clubs, until it has become a question of almost universal interest on the campus. Climaxing this interest came Sir Herbert Ames, representing the Carnegie Endowment for International peace, giving students the opportunity to hear international problems discussed by one who is an outstanding authority.

Sir Herbert Ames, a Canadian by birth, has been in past years an active worker in the League of Nations. For seven years he was financial director of the league secretariat, and since that time has spent much time in Europe, where he has been able to observe at first hand the activities of the league and to judge of their efficacy. He is cognizant also of the many problems which have yet to be solved, in all their intricacy and importance. Thus emently fitted to speak to the students on the various phases of this subject, and to answer authoritatively the questions which they asked him. Sir Herbert was indeed an inspiration and assistance to the many who were interested.

The university is to be congratulated upon the success of this and its various other efforts to provide satlems of international relations are the important problems of the near future is a self-evident fact, and that the students of today are the ones who will later be called upon to solve them is equally evident. What better preparation could be afforded them than the type which the university offers in its international relations classes, its club of that name, its Cosmopolitan club, and its speakers such as Sir Herbert Ames.

STUDENT BUILDING

To The Editor The Kernel Dear Sir:

Honorary fraternities at the university function but little. Aside from the interest aroused at pledging time and the preparations incidental to initiation honorary fraternity activity is dormant. Because of the peculiar situation at Kentucky where the social fraternity so completely dominates the activity field, these honorary groups have little or no function.

These same organizations at other schools perform valuable tasks. The promotion of musi-cals, the advertisement of various student activities, the sale of tickets, or the promotion of projects are all in the scope of honorary activity. That similar situations exist on this campus is undoubtedly true.

Today the university lacks that which all better schools have—a student union building. The education of the public a to the university wants should become a project well worth the time of any group of students. Newspaper publicity, submis-

Editor The Kernel Dear Sir:

As Bart Peak has so often suggested, what the Kernel really needs is some religion. Why not include in each edition a few words of Christian cheer? Many of us would like to learn some little prayer—some expression of devotion. We are not all so Godless as the impression which one would receive by reading a copy of the Kernel.

If it were not for the Pitkin club, the Y. M., and the Y. W. C. A. one would hardly suspect that we are Christians. Does it not seem a shame that we, who are the most blessed, are the least appreciative? We have the example of scores of the good people of Lexington who have far less than we to be thankful

Remember, friends, your academic degrees will not admit you into the kingdom of God. You do not have to be ashamed of being devout because the best people—the people whose opin-ions really count, all are de-

Esperanto Spoken By Workmen In Vienna Olympiad

In Vienna recently, according to the American Esperatist for March and April, the Local Committee of the Second Workers' Olympiad used Esperanto on a large scale and availed itself of the services of the Esperanto labor organizations which neips in the dissemination of information and in the enrollment of athletes. Eighty thousand workers from many different countries took part in this sport event. Workers especially appreciate Esperanto as they, least of all, have the oppor-tunity to study even one foreign language, and the ease of Esperanto gives them an advantage over their more linguistic brethern.

Xth Olympiad

By LEONARD HORWIN

Can you imagine a body of men deliberately setting about to build a city for 3,000 people, with its own roads, its own water system with eight miles of mains, its own trans-portation system of 75 buses, its own hospital, bank, fire and police departments, motion-picture theatre, six to 800 two-room dwellings with every civilized convenience, its own dining hall 1200 feet long and administration bulding 700 feet long -doing the whole job in three months and taking the city completely apart at the end of the fifth

Can you? Of course, you can't, because history will be utterly barren of precedents for the medley of architec ture and landscaping set up like a toy city almost over-night on the Baldwin Hills overlooking the scene of the Xth Olympiad at Los Angeles, housing the hopes of 40 nations and the bodies of 3,000 men-mod estly titled OLYMPIC VILLAGE.
